Tdata Advertising

We use third party vendors such as Google’s AdWords Remarketing Ads as an advertising tool to remind, invite, and notify past and/or current patrons of our site of our services and supplies offered on our site, www.tdata.com. Our goal is to be as efficient and accessible as possible to consumers searching for the best Aviation software and services via the Internet. If a consumer/web surfer has frequently searched the web for items or services similar to the services and products that Tdata offers, re-marketing ads may appear on a site the consumer/web surfer is visiting. Therefore, these third party vendors will often advertise via search engine results in the form of paid and unpaid ads to any audience that has an interest in similar services that we offer on our site. Tdata currently uses third party vendors such as Google Adwords, YouTube, AdCenter’s Bing and Yahoo for online advertising. We also use Social Media outlets FaceBook, Twitter, and others as necessary. These third party vendors will often use cookies to determine the consumer interests and streamline the remarketing ads relevant to the consumer’s past searches and sites visited such as Tdata.

Newsletters

We occasionally send newsletters to consumers who wish to receive updates of current promotions or newsworthy articles related to Aviation software and services. The newsletter must be requested by the consumer but at times we may send updates to current and past customers. If at any time a consumer wishes to opt out of our newsletters they may do so by either contacting us directly via phone or email. We will immediately remove the email address from our newsletter database.

Communication Encryption

Our site utilizes the highest level of encryption available from COMODO - the leader in secure socket layer (SSL) communications.

Credit Cards

Your credit card information is safe with us. We take every precaution to make sure that credit card data is not mishandled, taken off site, or given to inappropriate companies or individuals. Credit card information is stored in our financial management system, and many layers of both physical and logical security protect that database.

Email Addresses

Email Addresses are not shared, bought, or sold via our site or our data management system. Your email address is primarily used to communicate the status of your order. We may use your email address to send updates, alerts or promotional information and to keep you informed of changes to our website.
